| 18 | Objective of the Course:                                | One of the factors determining the attitude and attitude of societies and individuals to women is religion. The roles, rights and responsibilities of women in society change according to the value religion gives to women, freedom or the responsibility it places on women. This course deals with the view of different religions on women in a theological framework. This information about the religious perception of women will be useful in understanding the structure of societies. |
| 19 | Contribution of the Course to Professional Development: | It enables students who wish to specialize in women's studies to learn about the way religions view women, and the status and function of women in religions.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
